WITH BANGS AND CLATTERS, supported by a long series of rrrr's this machine rolls down the New York Central tracks, making the ties ready for the paving which all of us hope soon will be completed. Efforts to have the entire street paved have been unsuccessful because of a lack of funds. However, it is quite possible that the contractor will find it possible to do a capable patch job on many of the street's worst holes while he has his equipment on the scene for the railway surfacing.

SCHOOL'S NOT OVER for most of the youngsters of Warren as they began to attend vacation bible classes for an average of two weeks. Here is a part of the Grace

Methodist's primary department. The school's total enrollment exceeded 150. If you could watch them for a few minutes (and there is no reason why you can't) as they enjoy the hand work you would know in a few minutes why the attendance is so high.

Pastor Nore Gustafson announced to the choir that they will sing on August 21 at the Lutheran Home for the Aged. The Home will be celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary.

NONE ARE TOO YOUNG for the Warren playgrounds. Here a little girl swings her sister at Beaty and at the same time relieves her mother of the child's responsibility so she can do the housework or necessary shopping. Warren's play areas are booming during this summer of 1955.

JUNIOR RECITAL. David Greenlund, fifteen-year-old tenor, thrilled a capacity audience at the Warren Conservatory on Monday evening of this week as he presented his junior recital and earned the praise "very best" for the way in

Things to Come

Queen And Her Court. . . . . Tomorrow evening, June 24, the selection of five girls as finalists for the July 4 celebration will be made at the Municipal Building. Of these five girls, one will be chosen on July 1 at the Municipal Building to reign over the festivities as Miss Warren County. Arrangements are in charge of John Hickey, Skip Mohney, and Det Stalker.

Vesper Service. . . . . The Rev. A. P. Weaver of the Grace Methodist Church, Grove City, Pa., will be the main speaker at the July 3 vesper service on War Memorial field at 7:30 p. m. Also taking part are the Rev. V. Theodore Benson, First Lutheran Church, Warren, Rev. Gustav Erickson, Lander Methodist Church, and Dr.

Arthur Colley, First Methodist Church, Warren. The Warren Boy Choir, under the direction of Byron Swanson, will sing three anthems with George Johnson as organist. In case of rain the service will be held at the First Presbyterian Church.

K. of C. Degree. . . . . The second degree will be exemplified at the Warren Knights of Columbus club rooms on June 28 at 7:30 p. m. Officers of the Jamestown council will be in charge.

Extension Homemakers Week. . . . . Eight Warren county women will attend Extension Homemakers Week at Pennsylvania State University, June 27 to 30. Mrs. Inez Rudolph, Mrs. Grace Anderson, Mrs. Orpha Peck, Mrs. Mabel Granquist, of Warren; and Mrs. Agnes Flasher, Mrs. Katherine Nuhfer, and Mrs. Esther Hook, of Clarendon, will go to the university for this event. They will be accompanied by Mrs. Geraldine Johnston, extension home economist.

Lions Installation. . . . . The Lions Club of Warren will hold its installation of officers at the regular weekly meeting on June 28. A color film will be presented called "Wheels Across the Andes."

Zonta Club Dines. . . . . The Zonta Club will dine at the Pennsylvania Electric Co. at 6:30 p. m. this evening. It will be taken on a tour through the new Penelec kitchens.

Boy Scout Notes. . . . . A preliminary camp staff meeting will be held at Camp Olmsted on Saturday, June 25, at 2 o'clock. On Monday, June 27, at 7:30 p. m. in the Jefferson Room of the Warren Public Library there will be a meeting of the executive committee of the Order of the Arrow.

A commissioners meeting will be held at Jim Blomquist's on Wednesday, June 29, at 7:30 p. m.

Champions Crowned. . . . . Champions in marbles and rope skipping will be crowned Friday at each playground. Only those children who have registered will be allowed to compete in these events and in other tournaments which will be run off during the summer.

Brownies Camp Out. . . . . Next week 130 Brownies from Warren, Starbrick, and Pleasant Twp. will be at Camp Birdsall Edey for Brownie Day Camp. The hours will be from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Rotarians Retire. . . . . Last year's officers of the Warren Rotary will retire at the club's weekly meeting on June 27. Gerald Newton, last year's president, will have charge of the installation of the new officers for the coming year.

C.D. of A. To Picnic. . . . . Plans have been completed for the annual picnic of Court Warren Catholic Daughters of America to be held at Wilder Field, Monday, June 27, with a tureen dinner to be served at 6:30 p. m. A program of games and informal entertainment is being planned by the committee composed of Mrs. George Hesch, chairman, and Mrs. A. B. Chiaramonte and Mrs. Cletus Brady, co-chairmen, and officers and trustees of the court. If any member lacks transportation she may contact Mrs. O'Neil, phone 3065. In the event of inclement weather, the picnic will take place in St. Joseph's Hall.

Canines Compete. . . . . The Conewango Valley Kennel Club will hold its First Annual Dog Show on Wilder Field, Sunday, June 26, from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. There are 300 dogs entered from 55 of the 110 breeds recognized by the American Kennel Club. Admission for adults is $1 and 50 cents for children.

Golden Ager's Picnic. . . . . The Golden Age Society will hold a picnic at Wilder Field on Tuesday, June 28. Members must bring their own table service and tureen lunch. Coffee will be provided. The bus will leave the YWCA at 10:30 a. m. Bus reservations may be made by calling Mrs. McCurdy, phone 2453-J. The charge is $1.

Kiwanis Film. . . . . Mr. Harold Curtis will introduce a color film entitled "Water Transportation" at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club on June 29. The film is put out by the Union Barge Lines of Pittsburgh, Pa., and sponsored by the Emblem Oil Co. of Warren.

S. G. S. Rummage Sale. . . . . A rummage sale, sponsored by the Senior Girls Society, will be held in the Youth Canteen building on Liberty st., from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on Friday, June 24, and from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Saturday, June 25. The girls will use the money from the sale to go to summer camp.

ASIDES

Chief and Fire Traps

The Warren borough council Monday evening holds an adjourned meeting with two major items on the agenda. It will learn that Jim Tridico passed a civil service examination for the position of fire chief and it may act on the filling of that position. It also will consider an ordinance covering property which is not adequately maintained.

12,100 Cows - $3 Million

Those who own Warren county's 12,100 cows sold 72,237,000 pounds of milk in 1954. This was valued at $3,041,200. You can add to this the $354,667 paid to the dairies. All this becomes known because of this being dairy month.

Consolidation?

At the end of this month there may be a major change in the dairy business in Warren county. One major producer may be purchased by another, which would greatly reduce the processing field. The net result could be that purchases would be narrowed to large farms with the many little herd owners sending theirs out of town at lower grade prices.

Get Out The Rods

Those who prefer the sporty black bass for their fishing sport can start whipping the Pennsylvania waters a week from Friday, July 1. If you are sixteen or over you must have a license, and the limit is six. The fish can not be less than nine inches. Officials claim the natural reproduction and the 950,000 stocking program should mean a major season.

Educational Economy

The Jamestown Community College continues to gain prestige, and among the twenty-one graduates of this June, seventeen have been accepted by colleges of their choice.

Wednesday.

Mrs. Anna Quinn Aaron, 82, a former resident of 12 Conewango pl., Warren, died on Monday, June 20. Services in her memory were held this morning (Thursday) at St. Joseph's church.

Arthur Anthony Shine, 61, of 112 Pennsylvania ave., W., Warren, died in the Warren General Hospital on Monday, June 21. Services in his memory were held this morning (Thursday) at St. Joseph's church.

William E. Lutz, Jr., 34, of 125 Biddle st., Warren, died in Buffalo General Hospital on Tuesday, June 21. Services in his memory will be held at 3 p. m. today (Thursday) at the Lutz-VerMilyea Funeral Home.

TWO MONTHS IN EUROPE for Barbara Linder and Joyce Chapman, Warren girls, who are in their second year of nurses' training in the Rochester School of Nursing. Through an arrangement under the auspices of the student exchange, the girls will receive further training in London hospitals from July 12 through 31. The month of August will be spent touring the continent with stops in Geneva, Berne, Zurich, Rome, The Vatican, Florence, Venice, Innsbruck, Munich, Heidelberg, Cologne, and Paris.

The girls will sail from Quebec aboard the S. S. Castel Felice on July 2 and are scheduled to arrive in Southampton nine days later. They will leave Le Havre on the same liner on August 27.

This means their freshman and sophomore years are behind them and they will go on to other schools the last two years for their degrees.

It also means that they have not been subjected to the broad jump from high school to college, which many find so difficult. The studying at home is much easier and lacking in the distractions of life in a strange place with all the problems that go with first leaving home and fending for themselves.

Most important, however, is the economy involved. Some estimate that they save from $2000 to as much as $4000 by attending a community college near home the first two years.

Among the honor students on the dean's list were two Warren county boys, Carl R. Rosequist, Tidioute, one of the sophomore graduates, and Richard J. Newmaker, of Warren, a freshman.

Late Hot Stove Results

Warren Kiwanis edged Elmhurst, 9 to 8, in a Cadet League contest. Harrison, Lawton and Rudolph were the winners' battery with Lawton getting credit for the win. Elmhurst, Hogan and Madigan were the Elmhurst battery. Betts Machine Shop walloped Cornplanter Motors, 16 to 2. Creola, Massa and Suppa had home runs for Betts. Kane pitched and Suppa caught for Betts. Black was on the mound and Sidon behind the plate for Cornplanter Motors.

Printz Co. walked over Baker's Atlantic Service, 25 to 4, in another Cadet League game. Drum was the winning hurler for Printz and Lind was his catcher. Baker and Henry were the loser's battery.

COOLING. A dip in Lake Chautauqua is sufficient to pep up any member of the Y-Teens. It seems that the counsellors desire an extra helping of Old Sol and because of the scanty apparel try to keep their heads hidden from the cameraman. Early in the week, clouds hid the sun and the beaches did not hold their usual attraction but the last few days were nearly perfect and spirits rose with the temperature. To attend the camp, the girls must be members of the Y-Teens and pay the costs of $18 each per week.

Jaycees' Baseball Excursion Still Open

Warren boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 15 can still sign up to go on the Jaycees' baseball excursion to see the Cleveland Indians play the Boston Red Sox on Saturday, July 16. Boys and girls can register for the trip by filling out the registration blank in this week's Observer and handing it in at the YMCA before Saturday, July 9.

The youngsters will be taken to Cleveland by automobile. Drivers also can sign up at the YMCA and help the Jaycees give many Warren youngsters a chance to see their first major league baseball game.

Adults interested in serving as drivers should contact Frank McHenry, phone 1742W, or Dick Scalise, phone 2344J or drop a card to the Baseball Committee, Box 147, Warren, Pa.

Elks Take Second Place In Penn-York Loop

The Warren Elks won two ball games over the week end to move into second place in the Penn-York league. The Elks have now won 4 games and dropped only 1 in league play.

On Saturday the Elks pushed across 5 runs in a big sixth inning to shut out Salamanca, 5 to 0. Earlier in the season Salamanca had handed the Elks their only Penn-York league defeat when they shaded the Elks, 3 to 2. The Elks collected only 4 hits from two Salamanca hurlers, but two of these were extra base blows, a double by Norm Haight and a triple off the bat of Harry Gnage. Carl Falvo went the route on the mound for manager "Diz" Hines boys and gave up 6 hits.

Sunday afternoon the Elks swamped last-place Cherry Creek, 11 to 1, as the Elks' bats boomed out 16 hits. Freddie Gray pitched the entire game for the Elks and limited Cherry Creek to only 4 singles.

Next Sunday afternoon the Elks will tangle with the Ludlow Wildcats at Wildcat Park in Ludlow. The Penn-York league game will start at 3 p. m.

Wildcats Drop Second P-Y Game

The Marlin-Rockwell Rollers of Jamestown downed the Ludlow Wildcats, 5 to 3, last Sunday afternoon. The defeat was the second for the Wildcats in Penn-York league play, and both losses have been at the hands of the Marlin-Rockwell nine who lead the Penn-York loop with 6 wins and no losses. Ludlow has won 2 and lost 2 in league play and now holds down the fourth spot in the seven-team league.

Graziano, 'Cat third sacker, blasted a home run in the fifth inning of Sunday's game with a team mate on base but that was not enough as Rog DuBois, Marlin-Rockwell shortstop, went 4 for 4 at the plate, and Dick Ringer pitched 5-hit ball for the winners. Holden went the whole way on the mound for Ludlow.

Next Sunday afternoon the 'Cats will tangle with the Warren Elks in a Penn-York league contest on Wildcat park at 3 p. m.

A St. Louis Cardinal Tryout Camp

will be held at Berwind Park in St. Marys next Monday and Tuesday, June 27 and 28. Area baseball players between the ages of 17 and 23 are invited to attend. Players need only to bring their own glove and shoes and a uniform, if they have one. No charge or fee is required to attend the tryout camp.

Cersolsun Continues Undefeated

Cersolsun chalked up two wins during the week to remain unbeaten in Industrial Softball play. In their first outing of the week, the league leaders took Nick's Restaurant, 11 to 5. Ken Sorenson was the winning Cersolsun hurler again. Rube Fischer was the batting star of the game as he collected 3 hits in 4 times at bat for Cersolsun. In Cersolsun's second game of the week, the Jones' Chevrolet combine battled on even terms with the league leaders for six innings and had the score tied at one apiece before the Cersolsun team pushed across 4 runs in the seventh inning and took the Garagemen, 6 to 1.

New Process broke out of its slump and beat the Merchants, 10 to 6. It was the NPCer's first win since they took their first game of the season. Viola was on the mound for the winners and Sherwood was his receiver. Anderson and Tomassoni were the Merchant's battery.

Texas Lunch won two ball games during the week to remain in second place in the Industrial Softball loop. They took the Merchants, 18 to 13, as Joe Scalise had a perfect 5 for 5 at the plate for the winners. Later in the week Texas downed Guiffre's, 14 to 5. Bob Harrison was the winning Texas Lunch pitcher in both contests.

Guiffre's edged New Process, 8 to 7, to round out the week's activity in Warren's Industrial Softball League.

King And His Court Here Again

The Warren Kiwanis Club will bring the King and His Court, a four-men softball team, to Warren again this year. The four-man team will meet a nine-man Warren all-star softball team on War Memorial Field, August 30. Last year Eddie Feigner, the King, and His Court defeated a nine-men Warren all-star softball team, 4 to 3.

The King and His Court will appear on Art Baker's "You Asked For It" TV show seen on WFBG-TV, Altoona, this Sunday night, June 26, at 7 p. m.

Hot Stove League Meeting

The next meeting of the Hot Stove League will be held next Tuesday night, June 28, in the Trinity Memorial Parish House, at 8:30. All managers are urged to be present.

Hot Stove Action

No-hitters were the order of the week in the Bantam League as Jimmy Johnson of Thomas Coupling and Lowe of New Process turned in no-hit performances. Thomas Coupling took Warren Transfer, 6 to 0, behind Jimmy Johnson's no hitter. New Process swamped Warren Co. Dairy, 20 to 0, when Lowe served up his no hitter. Lowe also contributed a home run to the winning cause as did Lind, Dodds and Anderson of the NPC nine. New Process showed its Bantam League strength again by shellacking Warren Bank and Trust, 21 to 1. Lowe, who pitched 4-hit ball, was the winning hurler. Dodds was his receiver. NPC home runs were hit by Peterson, Rydholm, Lowe and Dodds. In other Bantam games it was Community Discount 3, Warren Bank and Trust, 1 and Sunray 1, UCT 0.

Mack's News pushed across 12 runs in the first inning and 14 runs in the fifth inning when they walloped Newell Press, 31 to 3. Albaugh and Bliss were the winning battery. Another big first inning enabled Mack's to down Interelectric, 8 to 2, in another Eastern Division game in the Midget League. Albaugh, Sedwick and Bliss were the winners' battery and Colvin, Caldwell and Gidders were the Interelectric battery.

Craft Agency won three ball games during the week and are undefeated in the Western Division of the Midget League. Craft overpowered Youngsville Merchants No. 1, 12 to 2, in their lowest scoring game of the week, Craft scored 21 runs in the first three innings to take the Times-Mirror, 25 to 1. In their last outing of the week they walloped Seneca Lumber, 24 to 1. Vavala connected for a grand slam home run for Craft in the game with Seneca Lumber. Craft now has won 8 games and lost none. Barry Johnson, Bill Larson and R. Poust were the three winning hurlers for Craft during the week.

Youngsville Merchants No. 2 took Struthers Wells, 5 to 2, in other action in the Midget League's Western Division. Crist was the winning pitcher for Youngsville and Vicander was his catcher. Davis and Suppa were the Struthers battery. Seneca Lumber pushed across a run in the last half of the sixth inning to defeat Youngsville No. 2, 10 to 9. Loranger was the winning moundsman for Seneca.

Hammond Iron shut out the Russell Merchants, 10 to 0, behind the three-hit pitching of McCool. No home runs were hit in the game but Hammond batters collected 14 hits, 5 of them doubles and 3 triples. In other activity in the Eastern Division of the Cadet League the Russell Merchants outscored Baker's Atlantic Station, 14 to 12. Fogle was the winning pitcher for Russell.

Ten was the magic number for the Printz Co. as they won two Eastern Division Cadet games during the week. Printz bested Hammond Iron, 10 to 1, behind the three-hit pitching of Armstrong and they took the American Legion, 10 to 6, as Lind hurled a four-hitter for Printz.

Cornplanter Motors scored three times in the last half of the eighth inning to break a tie and take Elmhurst Market, 14 to 11. The only round tripper of the game was hit by Hogan of Elmhurst. Black was the winning Cornplanter Motors moundsman. Betts Machine Shop continued unbeaten and blanked Warren Kiwanis, 7 to 0, in the only other game reported in the Western Division of the Cadet League.

Penn Furnace scored in every inning and defeated the Style Shop, 16 to 1 in an Intermediate game. Gafner and Flick were the winning battery and Kane, Tinnelli and Morrison were the Style Shop battery. Warren Observer continued unbeaten and took the Style Shop, 21 to 8. Mazzuca was the winning Observer moundsman although he needed help from Gagliardi in the fifth inning. Confer was the Observer catcher. Kane, Tassone and Morrison were the Style Shop battery.

No games were reported during the week from the Junior League which seems to prefer not to let other people know how the games in their league turn out.

Automobile Hill Climb Road Racing

will reappear in the area on Sunday, July 3, when the New Horizon's Enterprises will sponsor such a race at a course on the Frewsburg, Onoville Road, six miles east of Frewsburg, N. Y. The starting time for the races is 2:30 p. m.

Three types of cars, strictly stock cars from 1946 to 1955 which are licensed to drive on the highways, modified stock cars, and sports cars, will compete for honors in the hill climb racing.

Golfers Busy

The main event of the past week for Conewango Valley Country Club golfers was a team match at Jamestown which was won by Moon Brook, 32 to 28. Paced by Tim Creal and his 75, the Warren team did very well on a strange course. The total of the home and home matches reveals 55 points for Warren and 54 points for Jamestown.

Pete Juliano fired a 77 and Phil Prichard a 79 in the match. Their net 69's led the handicap tournament which was held in conjunction with the match. Other winners with their actual and net scores were: Bob Ritchie, 84-72; Harold Smith, 86-72; Dean Anderson, 88-72; Sam Rasmussen, 89-73; and Dr. Sedwick, 82-74.

Tim Creal also led the scoring in the local weekly tournament with a 38 for nine holes. In the match against par, tied at two-up were Walt Dramen, Bill Lundahl, and Carl Lundahl. At one-up were Harry Barley, Heggis Schmidt, J. B. Proctor, Hans Link, Dr. Giunta, and Tom Atwell.

A child-adult tournament was held Sunday, with Harry Barley and his daughter, Penny, firing a combined net score of 151 to take the honors. Mrs. Stewart Beckley and her son, Jimmy, were second with 161.

This Thursday the men are having a better ball of pair tournament, and next week will have a blind bogey.

The team match with Oil City, scheduled for Saturday, has been postponed.

Mrs. T. W. Fisher shot an 88 to post the low gross for the women golfers at the Conewango Valley Country Club, yesterday. Mrs. H. L. Banghart took the first division special event, and the low net honors went to Mrs. J. L. Blair and Mrs. Fisher.

In division two, Mrs. Dean Anderson was the event winner and also was low net. Mrs. D. W. Crosset finished second.

Mrs. T. H. Gannoe won the division three event, and Mrs. James H. Kannen was low net. Mrs. Marion Pettegrew finished second.

BASEBALL SCHOOL. Youngsters of Warren and neighboring communities have been learning the secrets of baseball by attending the classes which are sponsored by the Warren Moose home. Films show the proper techniques and the future big leaguers are willing to attend even during the humid weather and absenteeism is practically an unknown word.

Grouped around the projector as the evening's program is about ready to roll are boys - Roy Barr, Harland Brian, James Smith, John Rodgers, Ronald Barnes, Corky Crockett, Jim Waldeck, Norman Jordan, James Flaus, Larry Littlefield, Bob Baker, Ted Rosequist, and Danny Rosequist — and leaders Rosey Rosequist, Newt O'Dell, governor of the club, Ed Flynn, and Gene Green. All the classes are now scheduled for Thursdays at eight o'clock.

HIDDEN PLAYER TRICK. Rico Bonavita, Cersolsun catcher, hides behind a cloud of dust as he slides past Freddie Johnson, Jones' Chevrolet third baseman, in an Industrial Softball league game at West Side playground Monday night.

COSTLY ERROR. Clayt Madigan, Cersolsun third sacker, romps home safely with another Cersolsun run as Jones' Chevrolet catcher Bubby Johnson drops the throw to the plate. The umpire is Dick Pierce. Cersolsun won 6 to 1.

Observations

By Bob Walsh

Build Own Power Plant

Down Memphis way the citizens are peeved. Back in 1939, through a local referendum, they voted, 18 to 1, in favor of obtaining their electricity from the TVA. Now Washington comes along with a plan that would build a plant in Arkansas to bring power into Memphis, so that the juice Memphis is using can be sent to Kentucky.

The people in Memphis are not swallowing the one about "local interests" building a plant. The "local" boys involved are Edgar H. Dixon and Eugene A. Yates, commissioned by the government to do this circuitous bit of hocus-pocus, which all utility men well know is an effort to shove private power into the TVA area in hopes of eventually breaking up that project, thus removing a yardstick for the measurement of electric costs.

So far every effort in Washington to block the Dixon-Yates project has been smothered, despite the Democrat majority which could budget it out the window. Still remaining is the possibility that the transmission line can be removed from the public works appropriation bill, but the odds are against such success.

If this fails, the people of Memphis will act for themselves. Rather than buy from private power, they will build their own steam plant. They know through experience that publicly owned utilities are good business and save money. They have enjoyed such benefits.

If they can integrate their plant with TVA, that will save money, but if the legislature turns down such a proposal they will build one anyway, even if it must be larger and more expensive. The people of Memphis unlike so many local groups are not content to let Washington not do it. They will stop writing letters to their congressmen and the President and will do it themselves.

If this happens, flop goes the Dixon-Yates plant, with no thanks to either the President or the Democrat majority.

We, Too, Have Problems

This reminds us of the flood problem which never has been solved for upper Allegheny towns. Every year we read of appropriations with which something is supposed to be done toward constructing a dam. We would like to see a full accounting of that money.

If anyone has written Congressman Gavin recently concerning this subject and has any answers from that voice of the area we would appreciate learning what he has to say. If you dislike writing such letters, why not mail him this piece. It might move him.

Meanwhile, we can at least maintain open minds about such projects as the Kinzua dam. There has been too much pettiness and far too many silly arguments used against it. There are some good ones on both sides and they deserve serious attention.

We are not being facetious when we talk of a direct line to Washington and its plans about the river. It will directly affect us if built, and we should be well informed on every plan involved. If it is to create a lake fifteen miles upstream from this community we have a right to see that it is constructed in a way that will be beneficial. We should make every effort to guard against its creating problems.

We see no reason why some local group which prides itself for community spirit should not take this matter under its wing and keep in touch. Perhaps such an approach would gain more respectful attention from Washington officials.

This editor owns quite a library of information on the river, ranging from the Ohio River report to letters from hydro-engineers, from army engineer opinions to so-called secret reports. Though why there should be anything secret about so public a subject we never have been able to understand.

But despite all the information at our disposal we cannot tell you where the dollars go for preliminary work on the dam. We see no results. We see nothing new. If the money is spent annually we are about due for something far different than anything which we find in our files or library.

Like Memphis, we have a problem that waits on Washington. If we want something done we may have to push in the right places. That is a big "if", however. DO we want something done?

If we do, and it is not the dam, why are we not seeing to it that money is spent on the proper plans why are we not seeing to it that rather than on a dam that never becomes a reality, even on paper. This would be a far more practical and sane approach to the subject than much of the silly prattle which we have read and heard, mostly from those who have selfish reasons for not wanting a dam.

CANCER, HEART, & T. B. SOCIETIES BUY X-RAY MACHINE

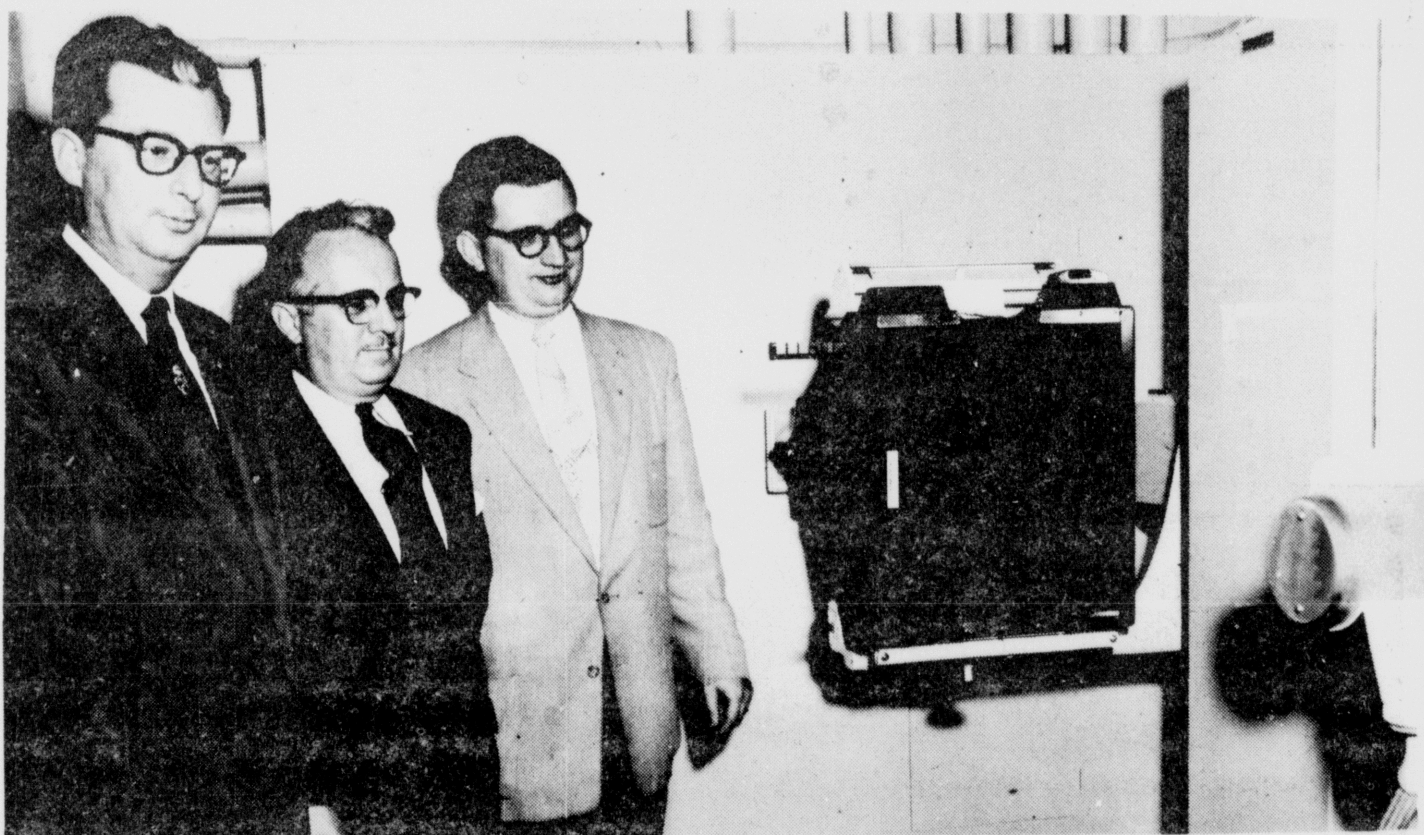

THREE ORGANIZATIONS CO-OPERATED in sponsoring the new "miniature-film" x-ray machine for the Warren General Hospital and representatives of the associations gathered to view the $8,000 addition to the hospital's facilities at noon on Tuesday. The project was started over a year ago and each group pledged to cover one-third of the overall costs.

Foster, secretary of Tuberculosis association; Dr. John E. Thompson, president of Cancer society; Andrew Donick, secretary-treasurer of Heart association; James Mazzu, vice president of Tuberculosis association; and Don Curtis, president of Tuberculosis association.

VIEW NEW EQUIPMENT. Frank Foster, secretary of T. B. association, Joseph K. Krimmel, president of the Lions club, and Andrew Donick, secretary-treasurer of the Heart association spent some time on Tuesday examining the new "miniature-film" x-ray machine which has been installed recently at the Warren General Hospital. With the new equipment, it becomes economically feasible to examine the chests of many apparently-healthy persons so that doctors can "nip in the bud" such diseases as tuberculosis, lung cancer, and heart abnormalities. Many unknown sources of infection can thus be located and isolated which will reduce exposure to others and start treatments while the diseases are in the early (and more easily cured) stages.

NEEDLESS WARNING is contained in the swimming pool caution at the Warren Y.M.C.A. What chance would any young girl have of swimming alone when so many of the fair sex are desirous of being able to make progress in the water? This class meets twice weekly under the watchful eyes of Bob Hammerbeck and at the present time has fifty beginners. Many parents enjoy sitting in the balcony and probably wish they had received such instructions at an earlier age. Have heart, adults, Bob says he can teach you, too, if you will contact him at the Y.M.C.A.

OLDOM'S OILY ROGUE

By
Ernest C. Miller

When Benedict Hagan was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, during 1841, and even when he arrived in New York City eleven years later with his parents, this country did not notice him. But this youngster, thrust on an unsuspecting and ill-prepared United States, was to be worthy of notice and carved for himself an unusual career which today has been virtually forgotten.

The day the Hagan family landed in New York, the father was swindled out of his fortune of $800 in gold, receiving for it partly shoddy merchandise and partly counterfeit money. By some unknown means, the family eventually journeyed to Syracuse and settled there permanently and the elder Hagan conducted a cabinet-making shop for many years.

Young Benedict cared little for the drugery of woodworking and persuaded his father to set him up as a street peddler but after working some weeks at this, Ben found he was losing money.

His next venture was when a friend offered him some wonderful pictures and steel engravings; the boy purchased them and put them on exhibition for a fee. The customers came rushing in but so did the police for the "friend" had stolen the library of a clergyman who was out of town, carefully removed the plates and sold them to Ben, and then threw away the valuable books. For having failed to realize the importance of "caveat emptor" Ben was sentenced to thirty days in jail.

It was likely during this period, while he had plenty of time for sober reflection, that he decided he would do better with another name, and with the Irish in ascendancy, he selected the name of Ben Hogan. As Hogan he lived the rest of his life.

Now the unhappy German-turned-Irishman ran away with two companions but they were quickly found and returned to Syracuse where Ben was punished by being sent to the House of Refuge at Rochester for three months. It was the last time Ben was ever to be detained more than a single day for any cause.

Upon being released, the boy disappeared again and this time was not apprehended. He worked his way to Albany on a canal boat, and after getting to New York he found employment as a cabin boy on a coastal steamer. Two years later, while back in the port of New York, Ben strolled into a gymnasium and was introduced to the manly art of boxing. Intrigued with what he saw and owning a powerful physique, he determined to become a boxer; billed as "The Sailor Boy" he fought in many New York State towns becoming quickly recognized as a good fighter and a handy helper in any rough-and-tumble affairs.

Suddenly Hogan had a stroke of good fortune. He won $750 in a lottery and headed for New Orleans; just as suddenly he exhibited bad luck of his own making. The lottery prize disappeared in one evening, lost playing poker of which Ben knew absolutely nothing at this time. It was his first lesson at a game at which he later was to become an expert.

Broke and stranded, Ben reputedly joined the crew of a pirate ship preying successfully on merchant ships for six months. After a fight among the crew over the spoils, Hogan took his share and headed for New York to see how fast he could enjoy it. With his $50,000 he purchased a small saloon on Cortlandt Street and spent the balance of his time and money living high, wide, and naughtily with the prettiest girls he could find.

It surprised no one that in a matter of weeks Ben had to start working and we find him entertaining in Syracuse at Malcolm Hall. Here he lifted 1500 pound weights, held 95 pounds by various fingers, and gave boxing lessons. Whenever the opportunity presented, he performed in upper New York State towns as a strongman, on the trapeze, and as a tumbler. In some acts he allowed a huge stone to be placed on his chest and then had it broken with the mighty stroke of a sledge.

On a subsequent trip to the south, Ben claimed he had to shoot a man in self-defense, but whatever happened, he was arraigned and discharged provided he would join the Confederate Army. Promising that he would, Hogan escaped promptly and easily.

In later years, Ben liked to relate that he was a pretty convincing talker and once had persuaded a Confederate officer to hire him as a civilian spy - shortly afterwards, he concluded a like deal with a Union General. With passes to both armies, free to come and go as he pleased, the chance to profiteer in such articles as quinine, medical supplies, and tobacco, was too great to be passed by. The spy saw to it that these items were available to the people who would pay him the most money. Ben was not one to let opportunity knock without opening the door several times.

It was in 1865 while Ben was enroute north by train that he accidentally ran into his old friend Jim O'Neil.

"Where you bound for?", asked Ben.

"For the oil regions," was the answer.

"The oil regions - where's that?", queried Hogan.

"Why in Pennsylvania, of course. More life there than anywhere else in the world. Just the place for a fellow like you. A mint of money!", replied O'Neil.

The more Hogan thought about what his friend had told him, the more he was convinced that the oil country might be just the place for a man of his talent. He traveled towards the booming petroleum fields of northwestern Pennsylvania and unerringly picked the busiest and toughest place to make his start, fabulous Pithole City.

Pithole was unknown six months before Hogan reached the place but when a "wildcat" well struck oil in territory long believed virgin, on the farm of Thomas Holm-den on January 7, 1865, the new area became the wildest center of the frenzied drilling and speculation mania.

Peace, arriving with the end of the Civil War, released a horde of discharged soldiers with inflated pay money in their pockets and thousands of them headed towards "the oil regions" with a large portion drawn to Pithole as by a magnet. Pithole was impressive as a crude oil producer too, for 3,000 teamsters could hardly haul the daily production of oil away from the muddy town.

There was little or no entertainment, few and poor quarters, terrible food, a lack of good water, but an abundance of toughs, unscrupulous speculators, outright crooks, and shady women.

Hogan established himself as the ruler of Pithole while working for Tim Heenan at his "Cottage," a vile resort. As a featured performer each night, the "Irishman" offered $100 to anyone who could last three rounds with him and while many tried, not one collected the prize.

Besides working as a bouncer in concert saloons and other interesting places in Titusville and Oil City, Ben found time to stage the first prize fight in the oil region. On April 18, 1866, before 1,000 spectators at Pithole, Hogan faced Jack Holliday, a bruiser of renown from Rochester. After five bloody rounds, and after Hogan knocked Holliday to the ground in the sixth, Holliday clung to him desperately and struck a foul blow thereby giving Ben the victory. The Titusville Morning Herald reported the brawl in detail in jocular vein.

Firmly entrenched as the toughest man in the petroleum country, Ben became manager of Em Fenton's Dance House where he soon was enraptured with an attractive strumpet known as French Kate. Money was not coming in fast enough so Ben and Kate journeyed to Warren County, and on a high hill overlooking some of the best oil wells in the world, they opened a large brothel. The settlement was called Babylon and truly lived up to its name; there was even dancing and whiskey for customers who did not wish to sin more deeply.

An oil country story that is still encountered is how Ben opened his place of sin. A group of his favorite girls ran foot races in the nude while the cheering oil men bet on their favorites. A variation of this tale has it that Hogan divided his girls into two baseball teams and they played in the nude to goodly crowds in order to attract attention and advertise their charms. Both

THE LIFE AND ADVENTURES OF BEN HOGAN

The Wickedest Man in the World.

REMARKS:

This volume is really an indispensable adjunct to every family. If the father of a family would take the trouble to read to his sons some of the chapters contained in this book, in which it shows plainly the pain and suffering the gilded gambler undergoes by day and night, he would find it of great assistance in leading the wayward child back to the paths of rectitude and respectability.

This book is not written in a loud and thunderous common in these days; there is no semblance of yellow covered literature. It is designed purely for the purpose of warning mankind of the dangers to which vice of every description will inevitably lead them.

ILLUSTRATED WITH OVER TWENTY-FOUR ENGRAVINGS.

CONTAINING A FULL ACCOUNT OF HIS THRILLING AND REMARKABLE EXPERIENCES, TOGETHER WITH A REPORT OF HIS TRIUMPHS IN THE PRIZE RING, AND HIS CAREER IN THE OIL REGIONS, IN THE FAR WEST AND ON THE SEA AS A PIRATE, AND THE COMPLETE HISTORY OF THE CAUSE OF HIS REFORMATION. IT ALSO TREATS ON PHYSICAL CULTURE, AND THE ART OF ARRESTING DISEASE.

stories are unusual and both are entirely unsupported by evidence but they will not down.

Jealous of Hogan's successful operation at Babylon, in February, 1867, hoodlums from Petroleum Centre, led by Bill Casey and Dave Owen, raided the place in an attempt to kill Ben. They were doing an excellent job of it when French Kate saved her lover by appearing unexpectedly with a blazing pistol and wounded two of the assailants. While this ended the battle, Hogan and his mistress were arrested only to be promptly released at nearby Tidioute. The astute editor of the famous Pithole Daily Record applauded their release and thought the decision a just one.

From the time Ben arrived in oildom in 1865, he was away from the oil country only at intervals up to 1877 and his locations and enterprises were, by their very nature, scattered far and wide and subjected him to possible sudden moves.

The year 1869 was a banner one for Hogan. Spring of that year found him leading a strange troupe through the muddy roads of oildom. His cavalcade consisted of a group of fifteen girls, dressed as men, and mounted on horses; following them came a pack train of tents, clothing, and other equipment. Locating at opportune points, these girls, all prostitutes, gave a brief show and then retired to their tents for business.

Autumn of the same year saw Ben at the top of his fistic prowess and he met Tom Allen, the heavy-weight bare-knuckle champion, near Council Bluffs, in an attempt to wrest the title from him. The first round lasted eight minutes and Hogan had a knockdown to his credit and tried to throw Allen over the ropes without success. In the second round, Allen tagged Ben with a foul blow that dropped him to the ground in agony. The doctor reported Hogan had been ruptured and could not continue, but before a protest could be lodged, time was called and Ben responded ready for battle. During this round Allen drove his knee into Ben's groin, rolling him to the turf in great pain. Referee Tad Ryan refused the claim of a foul, declared Allen still the champion, yet returned all the money that had been bet on the two fighters.

were furious and the referee showed weakness and poor judgment in his fence-straddling decision. But Allen retained the title as far as the record books show.

Parker's Landing, in Pennsylvania's Armstrong County, provided the next scene for an oil strike and Ben was there about as soon as the first gusher began spouting oil into the air. He purchased a river steamer 125 feet long and fitted it up as a night club and adorned it with the name of "The Floating Palace." When Armstrong County law officers tried to raid the "hot spot," Ben floated it halfway across the Allegheny River under the jurisdiction of Clarion County where he had been smart enough to secure a liquor license. The law was never able to touch his boat and it was regarded as the most vicious house of sin in western Pennsylvania. Even a staid English historian of the petroleum industry, James D. Henry, accords it this distinction.

Finally Hogan allowed his strange craft to drift leisurely down the river to Pittsburgh and what really happened to the bagnio is not clear but it is known that it burned most mysteriously.

After a brief respite in Pittsburgh, Ben opened "Hogan's Rancho" at Petrolia City, six miles south of his former triumphs at Parker's Landing. The St. Peters-burgh Press advocated late in 1872 that Hogan should be imprisoned or lynched because of the place he was running.

Such publicity only whetted Ben's appetite and when Petrolia City became a borough in 1873, Hogan ran against George H. Dimick for the office of Burgess. Defeated by more than five to one, he sold his dive and moved to Greece City. Later he returned to Petrolia and on a wild bet he built the Petrolia Opera House in less than thirty days. At nearby Millerstown he built another opera house, though cheaper in construction, and it was opened by Wildman's Dramatic Company with an engagement of "East Lynne" running two weeks to a packed house.

After brief stays at Elk City and at Tarport, a small town in the new Bradford oil field, Ben gave his Tarport house to one of his girls and departed for New York early in 1878. On August 22 of that year, he entered the Park Theatre on Broadway and heard the Reverend Charles Sawyer at a revival meeting. He was soon converted, soon married, and he and his wife assisted Sawyer with his work in the Bowery.

While difficult to believe, Hogan's conversion lasted and two years later he and his wife toured the oil regions. People refused to believe that Hogan was sincere or that his regeneration was complete and in general they failed to listen to his message. He often started by assuring them of his sincerity and in Bradford he explained, "I have heard it said on the streets of Bradford that I came back here for the purpose of making some easy money. Friends, this is no business to be in to get wealthy. If I were after money, I could have had it by sticking to my old business where dollars could be made instead of this, where only pennies are made!"

To Hogan's credit it should be said that he and his wife, with courage and honesty, went to Chicago and operated a home for derelicts on West Madison Street. It was well run and drew favorable attention from such notables as Reverend Tom Moody and Jane Adams of Hull House. Ben died in 1916 and today he is remembered only by the very old oil men whose ranks are thinning fast.

At rare intervals a copy of Hogan's book turns up in dusty corners of second-hand shops. It carries the appropriate title "Ben Hogan - The Wickedest Man in the World" and the brilliant though eccentric George Francis Train helped him write it. At the time the book was published, in 1878, Hogan's name was such that even Train attempted to camouflage his part in the undertaking by signing himself as "Trainer."

Advertising Budgets Talk

The figures spent by major advertisers for space in the nation's press have appeared in several trade magazines in recent weeks. Aside from the obvious fact that General Motors thought enough of newspaper space to increase its press dollars by thirteen percent for a total of $37 million, plus, and lead the field, we find many other interesting facts.

Liggett and Myers jumped their newspaper space about 88 per cent, far over three million dollars. Socony Vacuum increased its newspaper advertising 108 per cent, The Texas Co., 204 per cent, and the Gulf Oil Corp. 206 per cent.

Revlon Products went up 420 per cent! Phillips Petroleum, 124 per cent. Swanson and Sons, 193 per cent.

We find much more of interest in the breakdown of these figures. Who are some of these people? What trend is there here? Where do many leaders concentrate most of their dollars?

It may be a coincidence but you will have to excuse us if we seem a bit curious about the fact that the major gas interests spent so much this past year when it was so important to have a good press. Those efforts to have controls removed from gas producing prices could be involved here.

You may want to know who Swanson and Sons are. They sell frozen foods, and you know that this has become a major business. They spent most of it on frozen dinners, though frozen poultry was close behind.

Time, Inc. increased its newspaper advertising over 100 per cent. Most of this, $670,000, was used to push Life. It spent $420,000 on the new one, Sports Illustrated. Time came in for only $173,000, and Fortune, $81,839.

The expenditure of $939,000 by the Union Carbide and Carbon Corp. may mean nothing to you. But it knocks down to the fact that nearly a half million of this was used to sell Eveready flashlight batteries, and $377,536 for Prestone.

Most of the packers, such as Armour, Swift, Wilson, and others spent the major portion of their budget on meat products, a natural procedure. However, Armour topped even its meat products figure with 819 thousand on Dial soap.

In fact, as you check over the general producers, if they have a soap product on their list it is very apt to lead the list of expenditures. And this is newspaper advertising and not soap radio opera. There obviously is a lush profit in soaps.

The cigaret people, except Liggett and Myers, reduced their budgets a shade. But they spent a bigger share on the longies and the filtered jobs in an effort to counteract the unfavorable publicity concerning harmful aspects of cigaret smoke.

Looking over the big drug corporations we find that Sterling spent the largest amount on an old favorite, Milk of Magnesia, almost a half million. Colgate spent the most on Colgate Dental Cream, $2,739,000. Fab and Halo also rated over a million each. The other six million dollars was well scattered.

Radio took a licking when it came to promotion by the manufacturers, who obviously know where the future lies. Avco spent 534 thousand on Crosley refrigerators and 383 thousand on Crosley television, but only 13 thousand on radio.

The Radio Corporation of America spent $871,417 to sell television sets, but only $20,514 to sell radios.

General Motors, that leader we mentioned in the first paragraph, spent nearly eleven of its thirty-seven million to sell Chevrolets. Buick was next with a little over eight million. Then came Pontiac with five, and Oldsmobile with nearly four. Studebaker spent almost two million to introduce those new Packards, but topped that with over three million on Studebakers. Ford spent eleven of its seventeen on Fords, almost three on Mercurys.

Chrysler used over three million on Chryslers and about the same on Plymouths. American Motors spent $1,817,000 on Hudsons and $1,675,000 on Nash.

American Home Products, who sell everything from 3 In One Oil to Bisodol, and used a million and a half to do it, checked out most of it, $314,000, for Preparation H, and $254,000 on Anacin.

A trend of the times may be found in the $33,000 spent by Brunswick to advertise bowling equipment, plus about $6,000 on bowling balls, while spending only $1,524 on billiard tables.

If you wonder why some whiskies are better known and perhaps more often seen than others, this may explain it.

Of all the Seagram products, it spent over three million to advertise 7 Crown, and about $1,600,000 on Calvert Reserve. The other five million was well divided.

National Distillers Products spent $6,718,375 on about twenty-seven brands. Old Crow rated over a million of this. Old Taylor was next with about 833 thousand. A half million went for PM.

Schenley spent about six million on over fifty brands. But on Schenley Reserve it spent a little over one million. Over a half million helped sell Ancient Age, and nearly a half million was allotted to Old Stag.

The real variety can be found in Standard Brands. It spent $610,000 to advertise Fleischmann's Preferred whiskey, but topped it with $986,000 on Chase & Sanborn Instant Coffee, and $814,000 for Blue Bonnet Margarine. Also promoted by Standard was Royal Puddings at a cost of $344,000, and Tender Leaf Tea, $225,000.

But the one which looks the most suspicious to us, and certainly deserving of close scrutiny by the loyalty board, is Heublein and Brother, Inc. It spent $443,000 to advertise Sminoff Vodka. That must have sold enough vodka to make anyone a little pink.

Raise Postal Rates

The Hoover Commission is going to cost us some pennies before it gets through, if its recommendations are accepted. We understand that most of them won't be. The administration now is reported as being embarrassed by many of the reports and wishes the commission would get through reporting and get out of town.

One recommendation is that the parcel post rates be increased to cover all the costs. The annual loss runs into the millions.

We go along with the Hoover Commission on this one. The Republicans promised to balance the budget. This is one of the many steps that must be taken if that promise is to be kept. We assume the public wanted it kept when they chose the man who made the promise.

THE OLD GANG

I get a huge satisfaction out of the twenty-five year old success of "Our Gang" comedies, partly because I was brought up on them as a kid, but mostly because they support a favorite thesis of mine that children prefer gentle shows to the violent ones. For seven years now the idiotic adults who sell breakfast foods and chewing gum and who think they know what the kids want have been feeding them pictures of one cowboy shooting another cowboy or of atomic disintegrators blowing up Jupiter. Then along comes a "Disneyland" or "Our Gang" comedy and knocks the spots off them. I don't know whether to be elated or discouraged at the fact that our children have better taste than the grown-ups.

Old Hal Roach, sr., who made these twenty-five year old comedies, kept them surprisingly wholesome. Stanky, Baby Jean, Alfalfa and Farina were mischievous youngsters, but swiping cookies and throwing mud pies was about as far as they ever went. There wasn't an atomic disintegrator in the crowd. Children love pets and this series is alive with dogs, cats and goats that get into the fun. Even that long ago, Roach was quietly teaching racial tolerance by showing kids of different races playing happily together.

The comedies are now in sixty-one cities and are doing well in all of them. In New York the series on WPIX is now the top daytime show, belting the pants off such old favorites as Arthur Godfrey, Gary Moore and Dave Garroway, to say nothing of the established kid shows, "Pinky Lee" and "Howdy Doody." In Hollywood once, Farina and her pals got an 18.2 rating up against an NBC Spectacular which got only 4.9. In St. Louis the kids rolled up a 34.8 against 1.4 for Captain Video and his confounded disintegrators, and a 2.2 for Gene Autry and his roaring guns. Now if that doesn't contain a lesson for the future producers of children's shows, they must be totally blind. For years the sponsors have ignored the pleas of parents and educators to cut out the violence for our children. But can they ignore the children themselves?

Actually, while fundamentally aimed at kids, "Our Gang" comedies have proved mighty popular with the adults too. This is partly nostalgia, old fuddy-duddies like me reliving our childhood, but partly it just reaffirms the fact that old Hal Roach was a mighty fine showman who knew what the people wanted. Another basic factor in their appeal is the fact that they are mercifully silent. After all that racket emanating from "Howdy Doody," this silence is a blessing beyond price.

If you keep a sharp eye peeled, you'll see some big stars in their formative years. One of the bit players in the gang was Eddie Bracken, who is now playing the lead in "The Seven Year Itch" on Broadway. "I was the kid in the white suit," he recalled recently, "that other kids used to throw mud pies at." Another of the youngsters was Nannette Fabray, who is now Sid Caesar's leading lady.

Another former leading lady, Baby Jean Darling, is now married to a New York magician and plays the leading role in "Hilltop House," a soap opera. "It was wonderful fun being in the old comedies," she declared. "Charley Chase and Laurel and Hardy and Jean Harlow were all in the Roach mob then. They used to call us the Two Blond Jeans. I was five years old at the time. We never memorized anything. The director would just explain the action as if we were playing a game."

Her most vivid memory of the old comedies was a scene in which she fed oranges to an ostrich. "I was fascinated at watching the oranges go all the way down the ostrich's throat. It must have been a low budget picture, because for each re-take they'd just squeeze the orange all the way back up and feed it to the poor ostrich all over again."

Another of the Old Gang, Jackie Cooper, became one of the biggest child stars of his time as a result of his appearance in "Our Gang" comedies. Cooper did a crying scene in one picture that led to Paramount signing him for the lead in "Skippy," which made about $5,000,000.

"That one crying scene in the picture changed my whole life," Cooper says. "I'd never cried before in a picture, and the director used all sort of ruses to get me to cry. He pretended to shoot Petey, the Gang dog. He had a policeman rush in and pretend to arrest my mother and he pretended to fire an assistant director I liked. Finally I began to cry and he got the scene and that led to "Skippy" and $1,000 a week."

It was a nice gang and it's nice to have them back.

LEARNING TO SWIM. Beverly Mathis, waterfront director, gives a little preliminary instruction to several Brownies who would like to learn to swim while at day camp this week. The little charmers kicked and splashed but little or no forward movement was discernable.

OH, THAT SUNBURN! It took just a short time in the bright sunlight of the latter part of the week to develop a painful sunburn which was of such intensity that several of the girls (leaders too) were confined to quarters. Suntan lotion by the gallons covered bare backs and legs as the campers sought relief from the sun's ravages. In this typical tent scene, Carol Briggs sits on the floor and eats potato chips, Andrea Kirk leans back comfortably to write a letter, Mary Hughes applies the ever-popular lotion to the pink back of Gloria Shaffer, and Cynthia Park nibbles a between-meals snack.

KER-SPLASH and two lifeguards hit the water in a rather unique dive — easier on the hair-do. Beverly Mathis (nearer the camera) and Janet Miller close-reined the bathers for safety's sake. Nancy Long, of New Kensington, supervisor of the waterfront, was a victim of severe sunburn.

THE COUNSELLORS entertained on Friday evening with specialty numbers fit for New York's best night spots. This eye-catching scene was preserved by the OBSERVER photographer as the rhythmic dancers and musicians went through a practice session during the afternoon — no gentlemen were allowed at the real performance. The encampment was at Camp Newatah, Bemus Point, N. Y., from June 12 through 19.

THIS ONE DIDN'T GET AWAY! Y-Teen girls found this fish — they didn't catch it. Shortly after they had pulled it into the boat, the wind changed and they wished they hadn't found it at all. The stench of rotting flesh was enough to give the nature girls the shudders and quick sea burial for the carp.

The sun was so hot and the sunburns so painful that most of the campers wore extra coverings even while lounging on the dock.

DREAMERS. Preparing and cooking meals for ninety girls and counsellors at the Y-Teens' camp last week, left little time for (left and right) Mrs. John Swick and Mrs. Basil White to plan entertainment. It seems obvious, however, that the ladies would prefer an hour or two of golf to swinging ladles and the change might be noticed in better meals (if possible).

INSTRUCTIONAL, TOO. There's more than fun at Brownie Day Camp as evidenced by these girls who are learning to color on cloth as part of the hand work. Candy Thompson, of Clarendon, takes lots of time and good advice from Susie Lawson, of North Warren, before selecting the next crayon. Knowing most girls, it was probably a question of just how red to make the bluebird. Across the table, Mary Jespersen, of Scandia, observes Jean Quackenbush, of Venturatown, who seems to be coloring hers with a vengeance.

Golfers Angered

If those who deal in radio and television news, or have anything to do with programing for the same, will listen real intently they will learn that the golfers of America, and there are several million, think the coverage of the national open couldn't have been worse if the broadcasters had tried.

Daily we are subjected to baseball. Like it or not you must listen to baseball every day, right on through the full one hundred and fifty-some games. Before the season opens we hear the major portions of sports broadcasts devoted to what the San Francisco Seals did to the Giants B team. Finally, when the news is almost ready to sign off, the announcer will hurriedly crowd in all the rest of the sports.

When the baseball world's series comes around, everything else is shoved aside, and you listen to or watch baseball...like it or not. And this we can go along with, because it is the championship.

We can go along with championship fight coverage, and we enjoy watching the several major horse races.

But why, when golf, which has more participants than any of these sports, has its national open championship, the major test of the year, is the coverage limited to one little hour at the close of the final round? And with Hogan, one of the greats of all time, tied with an unknown, and a play-off scheduled for Sunday, the golfers of the nation spun dials, pressed ears to faraway stations, and suffered through an evening of trying to learn what happened out there on the Francisco greensward.

To have a play-off is quite common. Why then, wasn't some smart operator ready to make the most of such a possibility? It would have been watched avidly by millions. But most stations wouldn't spend a buck or two in an effort to keep their listeners posted.

Yep! We're frying! And so are a few million others. We believe it is time to encourage the participation sports through a policy of equal attention with the spectator affairs.

Maybe Hogan lost the play-off, but it should make him a few dollars. He recently started a golf club business, and the winner, Jack Freck, was using Hogan's clubs. All the big names in the golf equipment business had to sit at the sidelines and take no credit for the play of the two finalists.

Come to think of it, maybe that explains why there were no broadcasts. Most broadcasters wouldn't bother to insert a helpful bit of information unless there were a buck in it.

Fifty-Five Breeds

Half the breeds recognized by the American Kennel Club will be seen on Wilder field, Sunday morning and afternoon. And that is quite an assortment, fifty-five of the one hundred and ten, and including such rarities as the German Drsthaar pointer, the Welsh Corgi, and the Basenji, known as the barkless dog from Africa.

The judging starts at ten, and the winners of the various breeds should be matching lines for group honors about three. Then the best of show winner will be picked.

Tickets are on sale at the Tasty Bakery, United Cigar Store, YM, CA, and the B and B Smoke Shop. We have been talking about the first annual dog show of the Cone-wango Valley Kennel Club.

Now You See It

If you want to see hundreds of people trying to fool each other, visit Pittsburgh between June 28 and July 2. The annual convention of those affiliated with the international brotherhood of magicians will be held in the William Penn. And it will wind up with a public magic show in the Nixie theatre, July 1.

The big stunt of the evening will be Blueprints for Prediction. Several weeks ago the headlines for July 1 newspapers were predicted by Sydney Bergson, of Miami. He sealed them in an envelope which was mailed to the superintendent of police. The superintendent will deliver them to the state for public inspection as a part of the show.

Safe Play

The public has become more play conscious as it finds additional time, a combination that results from modern gadgets to do chores at home and shorter hours at the plant or office. Even in play there is danger if we do not know how to avoid trouble. The National Recreation Association has distributed a booklet covering the basic steps to take for safety in most major sports. All of these precautions are condensed into one piece inside the front cover. It was written by Edward Gerbic. We pass it along:

"PLAY SAFE"

At first, you might not think there is any connection between the safety rules for basketball and camping, tennis and football, bicycling and boating. But if you read the expert advice in this booklet, you'll find that there are some basic rules for every sport. For example

Use your common sense. The experts agree that sports call for a combination of brains and muscle - with brains the more important.

Second - practice, practice and then practice. A thorough training in your sport not only makes it safer, it makes you a better player. Perfecting your skill and guarding against the hazards of the game mean that you'll have a better time, too.

Third - accept your responsibilities. This can mean anything from controlling a camping fire, to watching out for others when you are driving or following traffic rules in bicycling.

Fourth - know your own condition. Physical defects do not always mean you cannot enjoy a sport; but they do mean that you must know just how much you can do. And, even if you are in the best condition, the pros tell you not to overdo it.

Fifth - have the right equipment and use it correctly. Abe Saperstein points out the dangers of going without proper knee guards and ankle wraps in basketball; Fred Kugler urges you to make sure your bicycle is mechanically safe. And this rule applies to everything from camping gear to football pads, from life preservers to the right kind of socks for tennis!

Sixth - take sensible precautions. The professionals aren't ashamed to rest now and then, to wear the proper clothes, to follow health rules. Only the amateurs consider such precautions unnecessary. Wes Klusmann says, "don't make a hike an endurance contest." Bill Talbert advises, "wear a sweater before and after a match...watch your diet." Garry Moore urges you not to be ashamed to put on a life preserver when things get rough on the water. And Buster Crabbe reminds you that "the swim out is only half the trip...the easy half."

There are dangers in every sport. But, through care, training, proper equipment and common sense, the experts keep these hazards at a minimum. And, as Frank Gifford points out, a careless pedestrian is in a lot more danger than a careful football player.

He makes another point, too. One that can apply to every sport if you play it right and that will make all your efforts worthwhile: It can teach you a way to live with yourself and others.

Finally, be prepared for any kind of an accident with the necessary surgical dressings, Band Aid Plastic Strips, Adhesive Tape, Cotton Balls, Sterile Gauze Pads, Bandages and an appropriate antiseptic.

MIGHTY POPULAR. These hot days find the Conewango Valley Country Club pool very well used, especially by the young members. On most days the adults can't find a cubic foot in which to step. The families gather about the pool, where there are games, such as badminton and shuffleboard. It suggests how happy would be a similar scene on a far larger scale if Warren could find a means of doing likewise for all of its citizens.

A PLEASURE. It is a pleasure to stand on the ninth tee of the Conewango Valley Country Club golf course. Not only is it an inviting and encouraging place from which to smack a wood, but it also tempts you to stay awhile and enjoy a scene which is rich in lush woodlands, green expanses, with a colorful Demaret imitator touching it up at a point or two in the rough below.

Straight ahead is the 460 yards to the home green. At the left of the green is the club house and its famous nineteenth. Now, hit it... far... and, of course, straight.

GOLDEN WEDDING. Mr. and Mrs. John Edwin Ogren, R. D. 2, Sugar Grove, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary with an open-house observance which was planned by their three daughters, Mrs. Clara Hartley, Mrs. Dorothy Rhodes, and Mrs. Jennie Bowers. Nearly 150 relatives and friends from Youngsville and other nearby communities congratulated the honored ones with gifts and cards. Mrs. Mabel Sanders, niece of Mr. Ogren, poured, and she was assisted by Grace Firth, Nancy Bowers, the only granddaughter, and Virginia Skinner presided over the guest book.

The Ogrens were married in the parsonage at Westfield, N. Y. on June 15, 1905 by the Rev. MacCelland. Of special interest was the observance of the Rhodes' fifteenth wedding anniversary and Mrs. Ogren's seventy-seventh birthday which fell on the same date.

In Brief

One Pound Per Person of butter, cheese, beans, rice, and shortening will be distributed to the registrants for surplus food on June 29, according to an announcement by "Tip" DeLong, Warren County's coordinator, today. At the same time, qualified family representatives may register for the next distribution. The same organizations will cooperate as have been used in the past and the same distribution centers will be utilized.

Register To Vote! Since the registration facilities in the Warren County courthouse have re-opened after the primary elections, thirty-seven Democrats and twelve Republicans have been added to the lists of qualified voters. The announcement was made by Evelyn Johnson, registration clerk, who further stated that the last day to register before the general election has been changed to September 17.

Divorces Were Granted this week by Judge Alexander C. Flick, Jr. in the following cases: Gertrude Grover vs. Harold T. Grover; Mary M. Eccles vs. Robert W. Eccles, Sr.; James P. Gorfida vs. Isabelle D. Gorfida; Arthur L. Campbell vs. Naomi R. Campbell; Eleanor R. Storum vs. LaVerne M. Storum; Wilma Halfast vs. John Halfast; Richard S. Sauter vs. Virginia R. Sauter; Rose E. Cochran vs. Leonard W. Cochran.

A Tour Of Europe will be enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. George Calderwood, and daughter, Beth, if the fact that they have applied for passports is an indication. It is reported that they plan to leave Warren next week.

After No Sleep All Night, Albert M. Davidson, of 103 Jackson ave., Warren, slipped off into dreamland while traveling east on Pennsylvania ave., W., at 6:10 a. m., Tuesday, June 21. Davidson's auto crossed the center line of the highway and struck a Warren City Lines bus head-on. He received a serious chin laceration.

Inattention Of A Pedestrian resulted in an accident at 8 p. m. on Friday, June 17. J. F. Lore, a Florida resident, who was staying temporarily at the Carver Hotel stepped off the north curb of Pennsylvania ave. at the Hickory st. intersection and with head down walked right into the side of an auto driven by Barbara A. Sullivan, R. D., Youngsville. The Sullivan vehicle, passing through the green traffic light, knocked Lore to the pavement causing a minor wrist injury.

A Chance To Vote June 25 has been accorded eligible wheat growers in Warren County who have already been notified of their qualifications. Marketing quotas will be the issue with a minimum price of $1.81 per bushel for 1956 if two-thirds approve. More than one-third voting disapproval will stop the marketing quotas and make price supports available at fifty percent of the transitional parity price or approximately $1.19 per bushel for those farmers who stay within their farm wheat acreage allotments. Those who exceed their allotments will not be eligible for wheat price supports.

N. E. Dodd, chairman of the Warren County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announces that the voting will take place on the second floor of the courthouse annex from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. EDST on June 25. If it is against any wheat growers' religious beliefs to vote on Saturday, they may execute the privilege at any time the office is open before the 25th.

A New Scout Troop has been organized by the First Lutheran church, Warren. The first scoutmaster of Troop 12 is Charles F. Sharp. The committee includes Karl Timm, institutional representative, Joseph Gibbins, chairman, Richard W. Stahlman, William E. Yeager, Jr., Francis W. Artley, Ben Bigelow, Thomas R. Hamilton, R. D. Hockenberry, and James C. Nordine. Edward Lauffenburger is ASM, Lyle Snively, Explorer Advisor, and Jim Keller is neighborhood commissioner. The original roster lists nine scouts.

Return To Elk Township for Labor Day is the advice of the Home Coming officers and directors who met Saturday evening, June 11, at the summer home of Dr. Fenner Lindbloom in Scandia. This year they will observe the silver anniversary of the Labor Day homecomings and Victor Hagerberg has been appointed to plan appropriate festivities. July 30 the committee will meet again to formulate final plans.

A Quota Of 150 Pints has been set for the bloodmobile visit to Youngsville on July 6 with twenty-five planned from Tidouite area and twenty-five from Sugar Grove section. The facilities will be available in the Youngsville Methodist church from 11 a. m. until 5 p. m. The V.F.W. auxiliary in Tidouite has accepted the twenty-five pint quota as a challenge and will attempt to arouse sufficient interest to reach that number.

Still Time. If you want to take part in that preliminary for the Jaycee Fourth of July Queen contest, you have until this evening, Thursday, to enter. Contact Det Stalker, Al Anderson, and Jack Hickey. LeRoy Schneck is the MC groups and organizations who are LaJoie, John Kofod, George Sarvis, and Al Aquist. It will be held at the municipal building, Friday evening.

Twenty-two Warren merchants are providing prizes and accessories, ranging from corsages to gowns.

Re-Elected. Alan H. Templeton, president, Roy L. Blodgett, first vice president, Henry A. Lanman, second vice president, James W. Potter, recording secretary, and Myron E. Jewell, were all re-elected to serve in the same capacities for the YMCA during the next year. The election was held at a meeting of the board of directors

HONEYMOONING. Miss Mary Ann Massa, daughter of Peter Massa, 28 S. South st., Warren, and Robert William Schenek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schenek, of Bear Lake, are honeymooning in early this week.

New York city this week, following their marriage in the Holy Redeemer church, last Saturday. They will reside on Irvin st., in Chevy Chase, Maryland. (Photo by Hedberg)

MARRIED SATURDAY were Miss Donna Lee Wright, daughter of Mrs. Donna Wright, of Jamestown, and formerly of Warren, and Donald L. Swanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Swanson, of Celoron. After a honeymoon in the Adirondacks, they will reside in Lakewood. Mr. Swanson is employed by the Interlectric Corp., of Warren. (Photo by Robert's Studio)

Dan Walton, general secretary, reported the services rendered by the "Y" to the large number of and judges are Evelyn Dunn, Ret-making use of the building's facilities. They included - Jaycees and its auxiliary, Sylvania Amateur Radio Club, Ministerial Association, Youth For Christ, Thursday Evening Bible Class, and the Industrial Management Association.

Playground Competition centered around comb playing, treasure hunt, rope jumping and marbles last week, according to a report by Fred Bell, program director. A total of 892 children participated at the six playgrounds and prizes were awarded for first places in the events. Later on it is expected that play-offs will determine city championships.

Two New Gasoline Stations will be constructed by the United Refining Co. in Warren County. Ground has already been broken for the first which is located on Rt. 62 north of Warren at a point just south of the Dairy Queen on the three-lane. The other will be constructed on Route six just inside the western boundary of Youngsville on the site of the Red and White store which is operated by Wayne Loomis.

The large building which is now located on the Youngsville lot will be razed soon as trees between the building and the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks have already been removed in advance of the construction. In both cases, the new structures will be of the two-bay variety.

At An Election held recently by the Russell Fire Department, Vinton Finzer was named president. Selected to assist Mr. Finzer were Arnold Jewell, vice president, Elmer Roberts, secretary, Lewis Spangler, asst. secretary, Charles Fox, treasurer, John Stanton, chief, Kenneth Jespersion and Ralph Walker, assistant chiefs, Richard Burlingame and Charles Miller, captains, Byron Lindell and Ray Rickerson, lieutenants, William Prowitt, truck custodian, Richard Burlingame, equipment custodian, and Ray Thompson, trustee.

Condition Serious. John McCoan, 18, who was injured in a fall while swimming in Tionesta creek, has been removed from Warren General Hospital to Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh, for surgery and further treatments. He is reported to have suffered a broken spine on Saturday afternoon. McCoan, a graduate of Warren high school, resides on Weaver st., Clarendon, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McCoan, Sr.

Who Do We Pay For High Gas Rates?

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON. -- A continually fascinating aspect of the political show here is the discovery of the impact of economic influences upon politics, those forces behind the scenes that are responsible for what the actors, the members of Congress, do on the public stage.

It is partly to enlighten the voters about such influences that Senator Hennings (D., Mo.), brought forward his bill to revise existing laws on campaign expenditures, which now has been approved by the Senate Rules and Administration Committee. For that measure, among its other desirable aims, would require a public report of every cent contributed and spent in primary and general elections for nomination and election of candidates both for Congress, as well as the Presidency and Vice-Presidency. This would include collections by the multitude of special local, state and national committees, often with fancy names, which now escape under existing laws.

Under Sen. Hennings' bill you would be able to learn who and what interests are paying toward the election of our national officials. This is important to know in watching Congress and judging what it does, whether the contributions be wealthy individuals, organizations like labor and farm groups, or business, financial and industrial interests with particular objectives in legislation.

This look-see is offered as a result of the intense public interest generated in the attempt to get a bill through this Congress to exempt natural gas producers from regulation by the Federal Power Commission. After an exemption bill recently was approved by the House Interstate Commerce Committee by a narrow vote, 16 to 15, its sponsor, Rep. Oren Harris (D., Ark.), introduced a resolution to authorize the committee to investigate the transportation and distribution of natural gas as it affects the cost to consumers.

Mr. Harris and other supporters of exemption bills have become very sensitive to the consumer who has raised such an uproar here against such bills. The Arkansas Congressman presumably wants to show what part of the cost of gas to the consumer is chargeable to those who transport and distribute it, as a way of taking the heat off the producer who would be exempt from Federal regulation under his bill.

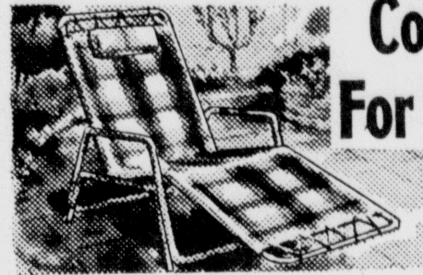

However, another committee member, the ranking Republican member, the veteran Rep. Charles A. Wolverton (R., N. J.) says information is needed also about the producer, about his costs and how he determines his price for gas in the first instance, and also about the control and ownership of the natural gas industry. So he has introduced an amendment to the Harris resolution for an investigation also of the producer.

An important part of the control-story is, of course, how a few big oil companies who own the major part of our natural gas reserves have spent a million-and-a-half dollars for lobbying in Congress. Rep. Wolverton stressed the ownership-angle by inserting the veto message of former President Truman (April 21, 1950) which killed a previous bill to exempt producers.

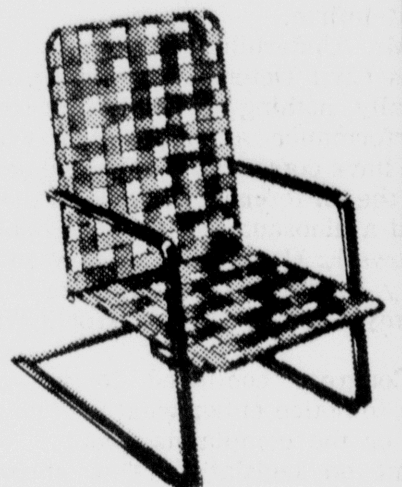

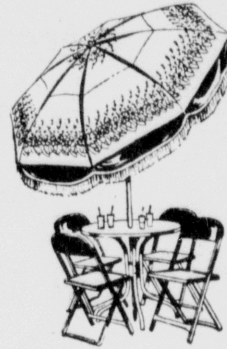

Mr. Truman pointed out that competition in the natural gas industry is limited, among other factors he cited, "by the degree of concentration of ownership of natural gas reserves." He said, "While there are a large number of producers and gatherers, a relatively small number of them own a substantial majority of the gas reserves." The New Jersey Republican said it is necessary to investigate the producer to bring out this story.

His resolution called upon the Federal Power Commission to help with the investigation. This it can do most effectively, for it has detailed breakdowns of ownership of natural gas. We might, for example, take the Phillips Petroleum Company, which was the company involved in the Supreme Court ruling a year ago that producers must be regulated by the FPC under the 1938 Natural Gas Act, a decision which the Harris bill would completely nullify. In 1950, the Phillips Company owned leases covering 8,757,452 acres, mostly in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, of which 841,451 acres were then developed.

On December 31, 1949, Phillips owned or controlled by contract 15.22 trillion cubic feet of proved gas reserves, in addition to huge oil reserves. In April, 1950, it owned 4,380 miles of gas lines in five states through which a substantial part of the gas it produces moves, and also owned 25 natural gasoline plants, and a part interest in 10 others, three of which it operates.

This is one of the giants that control so large a part of the industry. All of them would be enriched lavishly by an increase in the price of natural gas which it is forecast will follow exemption from Federal regulation. This whole story ought to be brought out, as Rep. Wolverton urges, for it is part of the bigger story of how we are governed, and by whom, and who is the piper that we pay.

Women And Children First?

By Doris Fleeson

WASHINGTON. — A few minutes before President Eisenhower led the White House staff to cars to start Operation Alert, 1955, a messenger was handing them the noon editions of a Washington newspaper bearing in big black headlines the legend: OPERATION ALERT IS A DANGEROUS FARCE, OFFICIAL HERE SAYS.

If they were amused they hid it. The President is taking the new drill seriously and levity regarding it is not encouraged.

It is generally admitted, however, by most of the men that they had learned that morning from their wives something about the program's deficiencies. Apparently it had not dawned on these ladies until they actually saw their husbands pack a suitcase for a three-day stay that no such plans had been made for them or their children. Their wives' farewell embraces were described by some of the men as rather lacking in warmth.

The women's point of view was defended by the protesting official, deputy district Civil Defense Director Underhill. He said the first step should be the strategic evacuation of women and children, the old and infirm.

Mr. Underhill wants more, not less Civil Defense. He likes practically nothing about the present performance asserting that what we have compared to what we need is the difference between an ant and a dinosaur and that the public knows it. Underhill was chief military intelligencer editor for the Army General Staff in World War II.

Congress continued to pretend not to notice either what was going on or the complaints about it but went on legislating. One shrewd House veteran said privately he thought the protesting wives had given the President a useful hint. As a politician, he explained, he wouldn't support any Civil Defense program that didn't begin with families.

The President, of course, could retort that Congress actually hasn't done anything about Civil Defense.

It is possible that while he is on sound ground in the present exercise from the military point of view, he has overlooked some of those intangibles which are vital to the successful politician.

Federal Civil Defense officials will feel that if Operation Alert achieves nothing more than public discussion and argument, it will have served its purpose. The operation, incidentally is actually the work of the Office of Defense Mobilization, which has responsibility ity for the executive Branch. ODM is entitled to claim that it is doing the job assigned to it and that deficiencies elsewhere are not its fault.

Because it has not had an aroused public opinion behind it, Civil Defense has had trouble not just with Congress but in getting the military to open up on what it has to expect. It cannot make plans to counter weapons and possibilities about which it is not informed. The Atomic Energy Commission has not given CD its full confidence.

There are people here who feel that nuclear warfare has outdated Civil Defense no matter how intelligently conceived and expensively executed. They argue that alerts are waste motion on the periphery of the problem, that the problem can only be solved by creative political solutions at its heart.

This, too, is being attempted with such moves as the Big Four meeting at the summit. Apparently the President feels that the present maneuvers will at least contribute to a general recognition that the problem is a vital one.
